

Mercury Pocket

Magnification & text-to-speech in your hand

Imagine a pocket sized electronic magnifier that will also read whole A4 pages and speak them back to you. That's Mercury pocket.

The exceptionally clear image gives vibrant natural colours to pictures and unrivaled clarity to different coloured text on different coloured backgrounds.

With a massive magnification range of 3 to 80 times, Mercury Pocket can cope with any size of text. The touch-screen automatic focus allows it to be used easily as a hand held electronic magnifier when travelling, or on its legs as a small CCTV system when sitting down.

The legs fold against the back of the Mercury Pocket for easy carrying.

When reading large blocks of text that can sometimes be tiresome, Mercury's text-to-speech reader is the answer. Mercury will read the text out for you in a clear, English male or female voice. As it reads, a coloured highlighter tracks the words making them easy to follow.

The size can be altered using the two finger pinch open, or pinch closed gesture at any time, or can be paused by touching the screen. One unique feature of Mercury is the ability to select the text to be read, by touching the screen at the point you want to read from. This is especially useful for letters where a letterhead can be disregarded, letting you easily skip to the main content of the letter.

Use an earpiece or headphones for private listening or use Mercury's inbuilt speaker. Mercury Pocket comes complete in an attractive felt carry case with charger and manual.
